@krmdagger1126 | 2019-08-11 22:10:57 #38

Is shrek just a movie about racial segregation and the issues with national racism? I would like to point out that first of all, shrek is mostly scottish irish, and that he was condomned into the swamp marshes, or the terrible suburban areas of louisiana and that donkey too was of african american and was constantly beaten by most people as this likely references the jim crow laws and that the united states had little to no consequences for racism against african americans, which is a good time to mention that the king lord farquads knights were taking many people to be sold like how the britains and spanish bought and captured african americans, now theres another reason that the movie shrek is about racial segregation is the dragon which may be a racial name to the japanese who the usa made as the yellow peril who were brutes that would burn your cities and steal your loot and anything they want, but this can be oriven when lord farquad imprisoned 3/4 through the movie mostly a reference to nuking the two cities of hiroshima and nagasaki which seriously chained and crippled japan, if that were true then lord farquad would likely be both european and american which can be proved at the end when the dragon devoured them whole a reference to japans major democratic reform and being one if the most advanced countrys in the world technologically and medically while the usa was screwed over by the great depression and europe by the weimar republics destruction and hyper inflation

Erm, age has nothing to do with it. Toy story and Ice age weren't only loved by kids. Alvin and the Chipmunks just isn't that good, and this is coming from someone who actually liked all the movies, except the 4th. Some kids movies are purposely bad because the producers know most kids will eat it up and think it's the best thing ever whereas adults can actually analyse what's wrong and right with it. Popular kids movies are loved by all for a reason, they're a genuinely good movie that can entertain all ages.
My dad hates seeing Alvin and the Chipmunks but enjoyed Shrek.

I actually enjoyed the first movie unirornically. It's a bad movie, obviously, but I just can't bring myself to hate it. The chipmunks have cool designs, Dave actually acts like his cartoon counterpart (unlike future films) and Ian was...something else.

The other three movies are garbage, though.

What I've always wondered even as a kid is why do the chipmunks look different in every movie

In the first one they look like actual chipmunks and their fur was a lot more fuzzy

In the second the fur colors got brighter and simon has blue glasses instead of black

The third was the same as the second but simons glasses went back to being black

And in the fourth they look a lot more expressive and cartoony and their fur color was different simon was brown alvin had a bit more red and theodore was a bit more tan? Blonde? Ok idk

Now that this is all said and done, check out the album Sludgefest by Chipmunks On 16 Speed. They take the covers of the songs heard on the Alvin and the Chipmunks movies and shows and slow them down so it's not annoying and it sounds phenomenal.

I have a soft spot for the first Alvin & the Chipmunks movie because I liked it as a kid and the Christmas atmosphere makes it a wholesome watch, also David Cross was pretty funny in it. But the 'squeakquels' I couldn't give a crap about and I didn't even like them back then.

Nah, I loved the first and second movie. The third was meh and the fourth was complete shit.
I have to be honest, I adore this show and I always did. I discovered the chipmunks when I was about 8 and since then I never disliked them.
I also like the new cgi show, they make funny statements and the songs are also pretty, you're all seriously way too harsh.
Also, remember that this franchise is for smaller children than toy story or whatever other movie mentioned in the comments.
Toy story for example came out in a time when young adults can still remember it and feel nostalgia so it's more appreciated, while the chipmunks are older and the kids who loved it are now married with kids.
It's a big difference.

I've had the Alvin and the Chipmunks on my mind thanks to listening the 16 Speed Sludgefest albums a week ago.

I honestly like the 1960s style for the UPA-esque, Jay Ward-like art style that I think looks fun to look at. Speaking about the movies however I honestly don't think much about these films to be honest. I haven't seen them in a long time but I remember kind of liking the first and fourth movie a bit and was sort of so-so about the second movie. I skipped out on the third film.

I still love the Alvin and the chipmunks movies, the only reason I didn't like is when they added Disney channel stars. It's like they came out of nowhere.

Now this what annoys me about people calling the chipettes " naked" first of all it's FUR the wanted to stick to a realistic approach when creating them just like the boys in the first movie.

2. In my opinion the chipmunks look more like chipmunks than their 2d counterparts

3. Alvin and the chipmunks will always be around weather we like it or not. Because their ICONIC, plus they are still pretty popular with that new tv show and making seasons.

The gopher in the storm drain on the second movie is "Digger" a mascot that NASCAR used to promote the sport children. He was a gopher presumably as a reference to some of the camera that they embedded into some of the racetracks, where you could see the cars from the ground level. It was called the "Digger Cam". This all happened around 07 to 09 if I'm remembering correctly.

These films...these motherfucking films....words cannot describe how much I fucking LOATHE this miserable excuses for entertainment. I don't know how such an abhorrent mess of a film could possibly receive a sequel, let alone three of them, because it is easily the worst adaptation of Alvin that I have ever seen. I absolutely despise how ugly the Chipmunks look, I hate how dated the humor is, there are more plot holes than you can shake a Wii Remote at, and worst of all, this series of films destroyed any goodwill I had with the Chipmunks as a franchise. That band changed my life. Cuz we're the boys of rock and roll. ROOOOOOOOOCK and ROLL!!!! And they're the grils of rock and roll. Better BELIEVE it! Yeah, yeah, yeah! And then after their set, Snoop hit the stage. What a concert. I was definitely sober and I saw Theodor wave at me.

One of the reasons why I'm grateful that people rip on the Alvin and the Chipmunks live-action sequels is because they made the Chipettes, let alone Brittany Miller suggestively competitive (actually, I think "jealous" and "feisty" are better words).

I don't see an issue with them being naked at first, I mean the boys were too and they are just cartoon chipmunks. It ironically gets kinda uncomfortable in Chipwrecked when the chippettes start wearing actual two-piece swimsuits on the island, because it suggests that they do need to cover up for some reason.

@@buzzytrombone4353 Ice age was shit after the first, and maybe the second one. The further they went, the more human-like and pop they become. The first one had a very authentic feel with how the animals acted and was touching, while the 3rd through the 5th one felt like Zootopia (which is good on Its own but not quite the feel for Ice Age that I dig, obviously). @@amelie_sweetheart I honestly think they should've stopped after that one cause the four movies from 2002-2012 more or less tell the story of Manny and how he becomes a family man again after his original family were killed while the fifth one just feels like an awful sitcom. Buzzy Trombone the third ice age movie should've been the last one. Like I don't think the fourth one is a terrible movie, but I think it shouldn't been made but it was an alright movie I give it a 6.5/10. But the 5th one was just god awful like after watching it it just proves that fox is just milking this franchise.

Ginger The Ninja 1 and 2 are MASTERPIECES, the 3rd one is actually not as bad as people said it was like it has it's moments, but in my opinion I think it's the worst and weakest one in the franchise and the 4th one is actually pretty good, the 4th one is still not as good as the first two, but it's a pretty underrated movie and it's definitely better than the 3rd one.

I can understand why people don't recognize Digger because he didn't really need to be a thing, fox just wanted a mascot for that merchandise money but Digger merch didn't sell as much as they wanted. Digger slowly just faded away. Only long time nascar fans could recognize Digger but even then he wasn't a very memorable character. The Alvin and the chipmunks movies are amazing no one on earth will make fun of them. But I am very disappointed that the old ones are not on Netflix. I'm disappointed I'm actually disgusted, these movies are masterpieces and will be forever cherished in everyone's heart who has watched them. The characters are gold. You can not change the view of a normal persons mind about these movies, if you try you are truly evil, evil I tell you. Your so evil I could spit on you. Alvin and the chipmunks are better than my own birth. I live and breath for them. Also the Yogi bear movie was amazing but not as good as the spruce goose one I must say. Also I agree the Smurf's movies aren't very original or creative Alvin and the chipmunks did a little creature movie better, way better that I've detected my life to them, Theodore just turns me on so much the little guy, he is truly a gentleman. Alvin and the chipmunks are the best movies ever made change my mind.

So about 10:22

So that is Digger, NASCAR On Fox's "mascot". They introduced the Gopher Cam at the bottom end of turns at certain nascar tracks during 2007. The announcers nicknamed him Digger and it was both cool and funny especially the animation of him screaming and crawling back into his hole. In 2009 they got the bright idea to milk Digger and give him merchandise that were fine and a CGI shorts that were awful. That is the reference now i must dilate my eyes to never see those cartoon shorts again i admit, i definitely overhate this quadrilogy for personal reasons. when you don't have cable and live w young kids, you watch what you got and several, several times. the AatC trilogy set was their favorite 🤦 but their favorite was the cruise ship one and the SEARING hatred i have for it.... i specifically remember one line where alvin says a joke and explains that it's wordplay, and i fucking exploded. not only was it a lazy joke but it wasn't even fucking wordplay, it was a pun!

idk if i hates how much time i spent watching these movies in kids or the movies themselves, they legitimately drove me nuts

I fucking hate that in almost every animal cartoon sequel there HAS to be new live interestes. Alvin and the Chipmunks 2, hey now we have the identical protagonists but female so its not too awkward when they get together. Ice Age 2, mammoth has a love interest, Ice Age 3 they have a baby, Ice Age 4 tiger needs some pussy too, Ice Age 5 i didnt even see it but i bet it ends in a fucking orgy, Madagascar 3 i think the lion gets a love interest honestly all i remember about it is its in a circus or something, Open Season hey remember Open Season? Neither do I but in 2 the deer gets pussy in 3 they also get into a circus or something (yes theres a 3) and so on i bet this piece of shit Life Of Pets 2 does the same thing. Like leave something for the rule 34 artists

@@SuperSaiyanMaster2024 I think they were already teenagers in all of the live action movies because in the squeakquel, they were in high school

@princesspeachfan100 | 2023-03-22 00:57:33 #12

Yeah, they seemed off in Road Chip, my guess is that they probably didn’t want to bother with the original models since they would be expensive and considering it was the last movie they made them different and cheaper from scratch, the older models were better...

@@SuperSaiyanMaster2024 I think they might be college aged at that point. I’m guessing they were freshmen in high school in the Squeakquel and juniors in high school during Chipwrecked.

And yeah, the models are bad in the Road Chip. At times, their eyes look really creepy, and they are way too cartoony. Their eyes are also too close together in certain parts of the movie.

@SuperCosmicMutantSquid | 2019-08-27 02:43:18 #1335
This might be a surprise but the designs in the movies were based on the ORIGINAL designs from the 50s, long before they even got their first show. They did look like regular chipmunks when the albums began and the 80s series is based off the redesigns for The Alvin Show. The last show that was on uses the designs from all three versions; The Alvin Show, the 80s versions and the movies mixed in with some updated looks.

Mad Max is a 1979 Australian dystopian action film directed by George Miller, produced by Byron Kennedy, and starring Mel Gibson as "Mad" Max Rockatansky, Joanne Samuel, Hugh Keays-Byrne, Steve Bisley, Tim Burns, and Roger Ward. James McCausland and Miller wrote the screenplay from a story by Miller and Kennedy. The film presents a tale of societal collapse, murder, and revenge set in a future Australia, in which an unhinged policeman becomes embroiled in a violent feud with a savage motorcycle gang. Principal photography took place in and around Melbourne, Australia, and lasted six weeks

Ok, for all of you who dont know who that character was when he came out of the sewer, his name is Digger. He originated from FOX Sports when NASCAR was still at it's Prime and I guess wanted to add some child friendly stuff. And thus, we got Digger. He would appear in 3 minute shorts during the Pre-Race and he always appeared when the camera was embedded in the racetrack. That's why he says "I should be at the racetrack". And I'm not gonna go into depth into what NASCAR is, that's a whole other can of worms. Long story short, it's been around since the late 40s and consists of 40 drives racing around in ovals, road courses, and specially shaped ovals like Pocono and Indianapolis. The races are endurance type and last typically for 3 1/2 hours. It is still a popular sport to this day. But yea, that's Digger for you.

Why can't I think of a name? I think he meant one where all four movies were good like the Toy Story franchise. Only the first three Indiana Jones movies were good so technically it can't be a good quadrilogy.

The gopher at 10:16 is a reference to Digger, an animated short ran before NASCAR races when FOX was airing the event that weekend. Digger was originally just the name of a ground level camera FOX implemented for the races and the cartoon spun off to be its own mascot of NASCAR on FOX coverage during this time.

(Seriously when I look at them I don't see chipmunks but just tiny people).

Yeah but without this, world war 3 between Alvinists, simonites and theodrians wouldn't have taken place. Oh shit it's still 2019. Well while I'm here I may as well also tell you that fitting yourself in a suitcase is now a meme here in 2021. Oh and brazzers has gone out of business and eating fruit seeds is a trend. Chipmunks is owned by Disney, as you said. They probably released it around star wars to make there be fewer rivals for star wars.
Release a bunch of garbage and people have to see the one movie you actually want them to see.
Maybe that’s not true, it’s a guess, but it’s the only thing that makes sense

It's not Alvin because he does it all the time with his girlfriend so it's not as special. That leaves Simon and Theodore. I feel like it's Theodore because he probably did it that one time and didn't know how good it is. Simon is an option but I think that he just doesn't get head. Theodore and his girlfriend have the most love so I feel that when his girlfriend gives head it's more passionate. Thank you for listening to my tedtalk

Okay, I'm super biased but I loved the third Chipmunks movie. Hear me out!

The writers recognized that sometimes the four less popular chipmunks weren't very important to the stories of 1 and 2. Jeanette is my favorite character of all 6 chipmunks and the fact that they gave her not only a LOVE ARC WITH FRENCH SIMON but her own SOLO SONG just hyped me up so much. Plus, at the end they had the theme that Simon didn't have to be a super cool French dude or give Jeanette fancy jewelry to win her affections.

That really hit me as a kid and I recently rewatched it with my younger siblings, surprised that the messages of that movie still kinda stuck with me. I know lots of the movie is actually hot shit lol, but I liked so much of the movie that even with the stupid island tropes and less than optimal writing, all the songs and character development of the "minor characters" just made me enjoy this one so much. Also, come on, that dance-off with the Chipettes and those girls on the dance floor was spicy.

According to custody laws once you get permanent custody of a foster or a anthro chipmunk you have to wait 2 years to officially adopt them. In that case the reason why the chipettes weren't adopted was probably due to coming later meaning that if dave could finally adopt the chipmunks in road chip that means that the chipettes would be later! Also idk if the chipettes are even in the family because they are not really seen in Dave's house so idk @@MDPToaster Long story short, the Chipettes are shown dancing in a very suggestive manner, with lips that looks like those of adult women, sometimes even in skin-tight short dresses. They sang a song about "getting lucky" in one movie and in one episode of the 80s cartoon, Eleanore and Britanny are shown naked, sitting in two bathtubs (in a Cinderella-like fantasy scene). Not to mention, the very first music clip in which a Chipette character appears, all dressed in a very short red sparkling dress with, if I recall correctly, a deep v-neck thingy.

The problem with the second one looking worse than the first is the same one that transformers has. The first movie was shot on film with the cgi fitted onto it. Second movie onwards are with Imax cameras, which make everything too crisp and mess with the lighting.

The chipmunks are neither cute nor funny, only extremely annoying

@Kvapilnation | 2019-12-30 07:10:25 #2229
The Gopher In the 2nd movie is named Digger who was a character that would frequently be seen on NASCAR on Fox apart of the "Digger Cam" which was a camera shot on the ground of the track when the cars would go by. He had his own mini series for a little but it died off. Also hence why he says "Feels like I'm back at the race track" and it's was Fox who owns it so that's probably why they added him.

Those three are way better than these weird live-action things. The original animated Chipmunk movies had great animation and great music unlike these weird new Chipmunk movies. Yeah, and the first one came out the same year Jason Bateman made Mr. Magorium's Wonder Emporium, also a Fox release and thus Disney-by-Proxy, which seem to be less aimed at children and more aimed at their gay uncles who are still mad about him leaving Silver Spoons. At least Disney can't touch that show.

Shrek, possibly had the problem valve has, they can't remember 3 without another number or symbol. .3, 13, 103 can all be seen. But the 3 doesn't translate. You could possibly get them to realize there is a number that can exist by 03. Though they see it as time. So like half life 1, 2, 2.5, 1.57524567990 (half life alyx), shrek goes like this, 1, (glorious) 2, [text lost. Locating], 4. Now the question is this. Can kingdom hearts final break the will of us by breaking into the millionth territory. All bets are valid.

@deeganrichardson9190 | 2020-02-14 01:22:02 #2350

If I wrote the Alvin and the chipmunk series this is how I would do it, the first one would be about their rise to fame and how they haven't quite realized even though they are big they still have to act responsible about their money and surroundings.

The second movie would be that they got used to their new rich environment they release albums, and tour

The third movie would be that their 15 minutes of Fame is running out so they stick together trying to do everything possible to bring them in the spotlight which ultimately fails, but also at the same time in the back of all of their heads is that they are sick of attention and being in the group so by the end of the movie they split up

This wouldn't be a fourth movie, but a mini series of what they did after the band split up and how they coped and recovered from the life they grew so close to.

The first tir ear god no. I didn't even give any of them a chance. I did enjoy them when I was a kid in the 90's however seeing live action cartoon hybrids of old cartoons just doesn't work for me. Either have full live action or a full cartoon but have them separate from each other, unless its Space Jam or even Who framed Roger Rabbit. Those are the only exceptions. Space Jam as well as Who framed Roger Rabbit actually has some pretty good nostalgia.

I remember watching Chipwreck as a child and enjoying the humor and the story, It was an interesting movie and...different, I remember thinking they literally had chipmunks play the roles. I had never watched the previous movies and so I had no idea that the chipets were technically their somewhat adopted siblings and just thought they were dating. Few years later I watch the second movie and get extremely confused because I honestly believed they were their love interests. I'm still confused about their relationship, are they dating or brother and sister? I guess we'll never know :/

Mikey D Keyes 1 and 2 were MASTERPIECES, the 3rd one is actually not as bad as people said it was like it has it's moments, but I do agree it's the worst one in the franchise, but the 4th one is good, it's not as good as the first two, but it's a super underrated movie and definitely a huge improvement of the third movie. So I wouldn't call it the greatest quadrilogy.

So the Chipettes just don’t come back? Dave just forgets about them and he only adopts the Chipmunks?

Like I need to know and it’s weird that I want to know.Like,what’s gonna happen to them? Do they have a new owner because they are more popular than the Chipmunks? Would Dave ever in his life also adopt the Chipettes as well?

So many questions,yet so little words for answers.Wouldn’t you agree?

At first I thought the first two were good and the last two were bad, kind of like the Superman movies that star Christopher Reeve and the Alien films that starred Sigourney Weaver. But was I wrong, they all suck and a quadrilogy rarely has all of them right which is Toy Story, and as for Lethal Weapon the first two received positive reviews as the last two were mixed while decent at best. The Batman films from Tim Burton were suberb and from Joel Schemucker were subpar, and I think Ip Man did a good job on this film series.

Chipmunk remixes were sold as Smurf remixes in Norway in the 90s. Invited to a classmate's birthday party but you didn't really know them well? Give them a Smurf CD, and hope they don't have it already. I think I and bigbro had 5, given in the span of 1997-1999. They are kind of nostalgic, but not good.

Well, not every was just remixed, they were censored. So there was this hit from a Christmas beer commercial "øl, øl, jule øl" that was changed into "øl, øl, smurfe øl", because Children cannot watch tv on their own! Oh whoops! They can, let's make alcohol commercial illegal to air on television, but legal to make to be shown in cinemas and if the channel is aired through another country, like UK...

@EmbarsArt | 2020-07-18 19:13:11 #2864

Okay so... I had a TV in my room which could record TV shows when I was, like, 10 or something. And the second Alvin movie was one of the things I did record since I kinda liked it the first time around. But after a while, the cable broke and I lost all TV access. So i had to watch recordings of things I had. Well, everything but the Alvin movie was corrupted. So... since I couldn't watch any TV in the living room, my dad didn't bother to fix the cabel and I couldn't sleep without light I saw this movie every night... for over a year.

@lstjfn9w6 | 2020-07-19 23:15:51 #2875
The best thing that came from the chipmunks is "chipmunks on 16 speed"
Chipmunk covers are played 16 times slower. If you do that with regular music the voices sound too low and the whole thing is pointless. But with the chipmunks high pitched voices, it sounds normal, if not a little slow.
I'd recommend the first sludge fest album, it's my favorite and makes me feel like I'm slowly overdosing in a grungey basement/ bedroom combo with 80s band posters plastered everywhere. The instrumental bit in My Sharona makes me stop and reevaluate my life.

I do ACTUALLY agree the designs are solid. When I was younger, the live action movie was the first thing I saw the Chipmunks in and when I saw the cartoon design later I was like "This just looks better in live action" and I still feel that way now. The movie sucks, but the chipmunks are genuinely decently designed.

Honestly, the one thing this movie did better was the designs. I was afraid they're going with a realistic look of the animals yet they managed to give them cartoony face for them to just emote which is great. It's literally what Disney should've done with The Lion King remake. Instead of making them so realistic to the point they can't show any facial expression, why not go with a cartoony look like the Chipmunks here? It works very well

TBH, I really liked the first Alvin and the Chipmunks movie and the Smurfs movie growing up. I think that they are fun and have good enough messages and character arcs, as well as just interesting stories and aren't afraid to be well written (many kids films dumb down the writing, where as the stories here actually let the adults do adult things and have more mature struggles). They even give arcs to characters that you wouldn't actually expect them from, like the Chipmunks or Smurfs themselves, which is interesting for me. To me, it was just that the sequels were horrible. Smurfs 2 felt like good ideas being turned into a badly-written film, and the Chipmunks sequels were just horrible. Chip-Wrecked is...watchable? Not good, but watchable. The other two SUCK in my mind. They just make me feel sad and angry most of the time, because they are mostly movies about misunderstandings, lies, and things going wrong, and I do not like those types of movies at all.

Alvin and the Chipmunks: I liked this one. There are some parts that I skip through, but over all I think it's good Squeakquel: I hated this. It is my least favorite of the four.

Chip-Wrecked: To be honest, I thought this movie was alright-ish. Not bad, almost good, but not quite good if that makes sense.

Road Chip: I really did not like this. I just though a lot of their choices for the story were really bad, so I didn't like the end product.

The only or The connection has been lost. Please reload the page ✕ y is Rocky and Bullwinkle. The original show took the piss out of pop culture and political happenings of the time while being very tongue and cheek about the jokes, and that's pretty much exactly how the movie goes except with the addition of somehow taking the piss out of its own microgenre despite it being one of the first. Jokes like "celebrities are above the law" were funny to me when I was eight and are fucking gutbusting now that I'm an adult.

To be fair to the sequel - Much of the plot points were based on the cartoon series of the 80s and 90s. The idea of sending them to school was brought up there, the Chipettes also attending the same school, Alvin constantly hitting on human girls and those girls being attracted to him... all of that was in the original series. As for the battle of the bands, the first animated chipmunk movie tread on a similar plotline, same with the competitive nature of Britney and Alvin was used repeatedly in the cartoon series and throughout the movie.

Edit: I forgot about Dave Seville taking in the Chipettes was also featured in the cartoon series, however, that was shortlived as an elderly woman took in the Chipettes and became their foster mother.

Alvin and the chipmunks 5: Dave is accused of sexual harassment and 2nd degree murder, he is sentenced to 15 years in jail and the chipmunks are aborted. When Dave gets out of jail, he tracks down the chippettes, rapes them, and beats them to death. Ian is now stranded after jumping off a boat while drunk and survived about 3 days. And the love interest was murdered by Dave.

Tourette's Dave:
The movie follows Alicia, the 13 year old daughter of David Seville, a single father who is raising nine singing domestic chipmunks, (Alvin, Simon, Theodore) as his adoptive sons, as well as Chip and Dale, and The Chipettes (Brittany, Jeanette, Eleanor, and Charlene)

Dave has two new henchmen, Danny Walters (Tourette's Guy), and James Rolfe the Fucking Nerd.

All out chaos occurs everyday, and Alvin is always defeated in the end, mainly thanks to an elite squad of creatures known as The Domestic 72.

I plan to bring all AaTC characters from each generation together in one film, as well as a couple of fan fictions, to finally ruin the franchise I hate most

Ross Bagdasarian Jr. as Alvin and Simon
Janice Karman as Theodore, Brittany, Jeanette, and Miss MIller
Vanessa Bagdasarian Eleanor and Charlene
??? as Chip and Dale
Uncle Harry
Calvin and The Hipmunks
Ben Stiller as Dave Seville/Tourette's Dave
??? as Alicia Seville
Tony Six as Danny Walters/Tourette's Guy
James Rolfe as Angry Video Game Nerd
Sal Lizard as Danny's Dad
Jared Six as Danny's Son
??? as Shirlena
David Cross as Ian Hawke

This sounds very far fetched but what if Alvin and the chipmunks 5 was about Dave getting so mad at Alvin, Simon, and Theodore ruining the house that he disowns them and kicks them out. Dave moves to Washington state then the chipmunks find a way to make Dave their dad again. They travel all the way to Washington with the help of the chipettes. They find Dave and try to reason with him but Dave doesn't forgive them. Then Alvin says that they should sing a song for Dave and they sing the song "someone you loved" by Lewis Capaldi. Then Dave forgives them and they move back to their old house and fix it up and become a family again

The first two films are the best and then the last two films are bad in my opinion. But, I also used to like the third film back in early-2012 after it came out and I'm was so sick back in January 2012 until Mid-February 2012 due to sicky nose. :(I'm was also planned to get the third film on DVD for Easter and It was didn't released on DVD and Blu-Ray yet during Easter. But, It was just released on DVD and Blu-Ray after My Easter Break in my country. But, I had to be an fan of that childish YTV and Nickelodeon sitcom show called Life with Boys back in April 2012. But, I'm was going to be an big fan of Alvin and the Chipmunks 3 Chipwrecked will from late-March 2012 to Mid-April 2012 like the second film back in 2010. But, I decides to start liking My Little Pony Friendship is Magic back in May 2012 and I've start hating Alvin and the Chipmunks 3 Chipwrecked since around the summer or fall of 2012.

AATC: Cute

The Squeakquel: Overused "Character goes to high school" trope but with an absolutely cringy execution + the animation quality is disgusting (some say God has abandoned us because of this movie)

Chipwrecked: Has its fun moments, lots of character interactions, almost felt like the old 2D movies but still pretty generic

The Road Chip: ACTUALLY DECENT AND ENJOYABLE MOVIE, brilliant photorealistic animation, with a lot of attention and heart put to it, aka Please watch the first and immediately skip to this one

Keep in mind that this is coming from the POV of a big fan (of early/cartoon versions mostly, the CGI movies are the black sheep of this fandom).

"I can tell that the joke is funny, but I can't bring myself to laugh."

I think this might be a side-effect of the Chipmunks' gimmick - their voices are created by speaking/singing slowly and then speeding the recording up. That must make it really difficult for the voice actors to do proper comic timing, which can make or break a joke.

I honestly loved this movie when I was a child. (Bruh I also had no clue the original 50's show existed. What, I was born in early 2000's!) And, I was like, SHOCKED when I found out that people hate it. This also have taken my childhood away a bit...

I hated Alvi oices were grating. I wanted someone to shoot them dead. So naturally I was not a fan of this film. My friend actually saw the first movie on DVD and the Squeakquel in theaters. I feel so bad for them. When I become an expert scriptwriter (for, you guessed it, Warner Bros.), I will make sure my scripts are based on how I see things and not the charts.

@@slowedscenario1678 sometimes the roles that an actor/actress gets can limit the types of future roles available to them. It's called type casting. For example, Jason Statham is type cast in action movie roles as an antihero who often has bad things happen to him that he must fix using action packed fight scenes. You wouldn't expect to see him in a comedy movie or a children's movie.

So the actress may regret being in the movie for type casting reasons, she doesn't like the idea that she played a supporting actress role for a CG anthropomorphic chipmunk, or maybe she is tired of receiving DMs from people asking if they can hide their nuts in her? Who knows.

actually, there's nothing really strange about that because the chipmunks are highly humanized. their body language, their facial expressions, the way they talk are very human, hence something we can be attracted to. it's very clear that the animators intended to make especially brittany and janette pretty/appealing to look at.

I will never forget that one time, almost 3 years in school where we (like 2 or 3 classes in one room) had to pick between 2 films that the teachers brought for us to watch. Spiderman 3 and Alvin & The Chipmunks. I can't believe the majority picked Alvin and I had to sit there depressed throught the whole movie becouse I wanted to relive the good old days of my childhood for once. I realy wanted to watch Spiderman 3 again couse it's been years since my disc has been broken and I realy wanted to relive my childhood. But no. School always has to find a way to ruin everything. I just found this video recommended to me and I just wanted to share the story. It doesn't seem like a big deal but man at the time I was pissed. Just goes to show how overrated Alvin & The Chipmunks is. Don't get me wrong, Alvin is also a big part of my childhood. But how many damn times am I gonna watch Alvin with a school.

Best film quadrilogies of all time?

- Avengers (more of a trilogy since Infinity War and Endgame are one movie split into two parts)
- Toy Story
- Rebuild of Evangelion
- Alien (before the two actually good Ridley Scott prequels and the terrible Alien vs. Predator movies; Alien^3 and Alien: Resurrection weren't as good as Alien and Aliens but I still liked them)
- The MonsterVerse so far
- Terminator (before Genisys and Dark Fate, but the true Terminator canon is a trilogy, with Dark Fate instead of Rise of the Machines and Salvation)
- Shrek (better as a trilogy, ignoring Shrek the Third)

And there are plenty of great video game quadrilogies:

- Sonic the Hedgehog Classic Series (1, 2, CD, 3&K)
- The Legend of Heroes: Trails of Cold Steel
- Final Fantasy: Super Famicom "Trilogy" (IV, IV: The After Years, V, VI)
- Postal (a three-part quadrilogy since it skips directly to 4 after 2; there is no third game other than a terrible semi-unofficial Russian-made spinoff, a much better full-length expansion for Postal 2 called Paradise Lost, and a remake of Postal 1)
- Classic DOOM (DOOM 1, DOOM 2, Final DOOM, DOOM 64)
- Deus Ex

$234 million on a budget of $90 million really isn't awful. Even accounting for advertising and the theater's take. I feel like they knew a lot of families would be taking their kids to see Star Wars only to find it was sold out, and they had a movie ready for desperate parents to take their kids to instead.

the focus being on the cartoon characters is a low bar of expectation, it’s not much to ask for. but it’s sad that it’s also an accomplishment at this point.

That’s probably part of why Sonic and detective Pikachu were loved. They’re pretty good but the characters made the movies even more loved.

The gopher in the sewer is a reference to NASCAR racing. In the late 2000´s and early 2010's, FOX had a camera view that would look as if you were lying on the track and the cars ran over you. They called it the "Gopher Cam" and had a character devoted to it. Hence why he says "feels like I'm back at the racetrack."

10:19 as a nascar fan that’s actually pretty clever when they first introduced the camera that’s in the ground they called it a gopher cam and had a little animation of one that looks a lot like the one in the movie a super deep cut for racing fans tho

I don't think they would have had to pay for the songs if they didn't want to. Because the songs are being altered all they way. It would have been considered a abridgement(Parody) so it would be under fair use. To use. Like how weird al can use songs without permission but does out of good will and why he won't make a prince song no matter how much he wants to

You are a silly, stupid man who has obviously never researched chipmunk-lore, otherwise you would know that this movie wasn't a cash grab but instead a passion project produced by the son of the chipmunks original creator, and everyone in it was so excited to participate. A lot of people were also involved in the 80s reboot, something you completely disregarded in your analysis of the history of the chipmunks and instead you simply said they dragged these characters out of the 50s when they have been around fairly consistently since then. You clearly didn't watch the 30 minute documentary detailing the process of creating this film, and you clearly have no soul because these well written and well performed films were both gut busting and heart wrenching.

what did I g [illegible] a review. Words could not even describe how worthless this trash is. The title is never explored- what makes this quadrilogy so bad? What makes these films go down in infamy? All you cover is a basic background of the chipmunks, and the plot of the 4 movies, with a sprinkling of "the thing is bad." and "this is also bad". I could have gotten the same information from a FUCKING WIKIPEDIA ARTICLE. You have no creative ideas or insight to share, and the whole reason that this has so many views is because fucking degenerate 14 year olds remember getting the chipwrecked dvd for christmas or some shit.
If you just want to shit on these movies, then that's fine, but you made it so lame. I want these films fucking TORN APART PIECE BY PIECE. Your lazy references of "hurr durr remember shake it up?? remember how bad it was? Remember SMURFS?!" are meaningless and are of no value.

I’m very critical with movies because I like to indulge in the drama industry commonly and I was also exposed to masterpieces and train wrecks at a very young age.

These movies weren’t good at being movies, they were good at being a placeholder for childhood entertainment.

I feel like most of the good reviews for these movies are just nostalgia which I completely understand. But if these movies were released this year, nobody would ever know they existed.

Maybe I'm a bit biased cause of childhood, but I feel a lot of people unfairly judge the Chipmunks against standards they don't against other cartoons with similarly if not even more wacky premises, just because of blind hate or their voices or whatever. Like, "oh singing chipmunks what a stupid idea", like an annoying talking sponge or one of the many other crazy cartoons are really much better?
While the last three movies are cringe, the first one I think is an okay decent kids film. Though I never met anyone else that liked it.

A few months ago, I got put in an adolescent psychiatric hospital. We had to sit in a group room all day every day with nothing to do but watch TV. There were a bunch of shitty kids movie dvds for us to watch, and lucky me got to sit through 3 rounds of Alvin the Sqeakual, followed by 2 rounds of Sing, and then listen to the younger kids sing outdated pop songs in high pitched voices for the rest of the day. Needless to say, I left the hospital feeling more insane and traumatized than I was when I went in, and I have those furry little bastards to thank for it.

Theodore taking a dump and Simon putting it in his mouth shows how low the Chipmunks went... Then seeing Ian in a makeshift dress in movie number 2 then I skipped the last few movies... Ross Jr must really be fucked up after all the drugs he did in the 1970s.... The careers of all involved are trashed... Simon is supposed to be the smart one! Yet we see him put a turd in his mouth... The only actor to get out alive is the one who was Toby.. He went on to be Capt Marvel!

Well i dont really hate the franchise. I like the movies since they were my childhood but there are indeed bad and cringe stuff on it. Like they used the same renders in every of the movie cover arts. Also if you listen to the music at the extras selection in the movie menus, they are filled up with ridiculous parts of the chipmunks popping in and dancing. So many cringe stuff in the movies but yknow, its my childhood i cant hate it

Rover is NASCARS mascot they use during live broadcasts on race day.

Sometimes they'll display him popping up from the ground on the track if they are using a on ground camera shot while the cars are passing by.

It was a NASCAR joke to say the least.

I think what killed the chipmunks was releasing the 4th movie the same night as Star Wars the Force Awakens. The night of TFA's premiere I snuck into a screening for Chipmunks 4 and the theater was completely empty XD it was halfway in the movie at that point

I know this r. He was at one point a major mascot of Fox when it came to NASCAR. So basically, it was a NASCAR reference. It is also worth noting that at the time of this movie's creation, NASCAR had just past its peak in popularity, almost becoming the biggest sport in the US, being the second biggest sport behind the NFL.

@603PaceCar | 2022-07-02 01:46:38 #3987

10:22 Thats Digger, back in the late 2000's NASCAR would sometimes use a ground cam, this is a camera that the cars could run over without it getting damaged, and when a crash happened, they would show the replay from the ground camera with Digger popping out of the ground, and when a car came spinning towards him, he would say "Fuck this shit I'm out" and tunnel back underground.

10:15 it's a reference to the gopher from the Bristol Motor Speedway NASCAR track in Bristol TN. At least I'm pretty sure, I was a racing fan when I was little and remember seeing that gopher on the commercials

Edit: did a quick search on the ole google and apparently the Gopher's name is Digger and he is kinda a mascot for NASCAR

Chipwrecked was the worst one by far. It got lackluster and the plot is lazy. The ONLY praise I can give is the hyper realistic CGI animation. Rhythm & Hues Studios outstood with these films.

Keep strong. Dont forget that despite the evil in this world, God is full of justice, mercy and love.

Justice said we broke His perfect law - causing the world's previous perfection to be destroyed - and therefore we deserve Hell (like a punishment in any legal system but this is eternal as His perfect law is eternal too). Don't think you fit in that category? Ever done one of these?: lying, stealing - regardless of how small the object EVER, hating others - which is murder in God's perfect law, lusting (plus God sees our entire thought life). Justice says "the soul that sins shall die".
BUT, mercy said "I dont want to give them what they deserve. I don't want them to be cut off from Me. I love them despite all they have done/will do against Me. I want to give My children another chance. I want them to come home and live in My love again".

And love said "Jesus, God's Son, came down as a Man, our representative, suffering every temptation, pain and struggle we have ever faced, yet without sin. He took all our sins (past/present/ even future) to the cross and then crucified EVERY ONE on our behalf. Justice was paid on the cross so that we can be free from Hell's punishment, experience Gods mercy of forgiveness of sin and live in His love. If we turn from the sins we have committed and repent (turn away from our sin and pursue the opposite direction of love through Christ) He will, overtime, recreate us back into that previously perfect image through The Holy Spirit which Jesus sends to all who accept Him as their personal Lord and Savior of their life.

He is in Heaven right now preparing a place for us so that He can take His faithful, believing children home with Him when He returns. He will ressurrect us from death when He returns, giving mercy to those who accept His love, instruction and teachings in their life, and give justice to those who refuse it.

He doesn't want ANY of us to go to Hell and die for continuing in evil and rejecting His way to life, thats why He died FOR us. He wants us to be His and begin to follow His life of love and service through Him (not ourselves as it's impossible without depending on His power and instruction). So long as we keep our hearts near to Christ through His strength, strive to obey His will of perfect love revealed in the Bible, and ask Him to help us in the midst of (very certain) pitfalls and struggles, we will, in time, win the victory over sin, pain and DEATH through Christ. Even if you are willing to be made willing, or struggling or doubtful, simply be honest and tell Him that. He is not intimidated by ANY sin or struggle you are facing. ANY. He hears and will answer. If we pray for Him to come in, regardless of the condition, then He will.

NOTE: You are NEVER too sinful or messed up that God cannot turn your life around through Jesus. EVER.

If you have any questions let me know
X

Honestly, these movies were my childhood, so I have a soft spot for them. I went back and watched them all, and I can say that the first 2 were actually pretty good and enjoyable. The 3rd one was when the cringe started appearing and the 4th one was actually pretty bad and super annoying. Don’t hate on the first 2 though. Movies like that with no extreme plot where they’re normal... basically don’t exist anymore.

At the time fox sports' nascar division made this "digger" character to promote the use of a camera that they laid into the pavement of the race track they named the "gopher" camera, later that season they made the character and named him digger and even had little digger cartoons during prerace coverage

5:29 Now hold on a hot minute, the original animated drawings are not crap. In fact they're better than the live action Chipmunk movies. Some of the songs were good in the 2007 Alvin and the Chipmunks movie but the movie itself was dreadful. I never watched the sequels. The end credits were better than the movie caused it had vintage album covers and stuff. Don't get me started on one of the Chipmunks eating that thing on the couch. The toilet humor wasn't necessary at all in the first one.

I will not take this blasphemy, I don't even have to watch this. Alvin and the chipmunks is the best franchise literally ever, I am legally married to Simon and I thoroughly enjoy every piece of media that has a chipmunk that sings in it. I dislike you based on your unjust opinion, and I will not stand for your utmost distaste in movies. Uncle Ian is soo great and any critiques towards him are unbased and complete tomfoolery. I am displeased by your silliness and I suggest you watch "Alvinnn! and the chipmunks" as it is the most amazing show to ever exist and I love it so much. The squeakual is so good and I love the chipettes, especially Janette. Uncle Ian is even more funny in the Sqeakual and I am so displeased by your critiques. Personally chipwreked is easily my favourite and I love it so much, Simone was my favourite thing to ever happen and I genuinely think I hate you for your opinion. I am not joking I hate you for your opinion on Chipwrecked as it is so funny. Also I love Janette and Simone together and I wish I was Janette fr. You clearly have no sense of humour considering this series is not the most comedic thing you have ever laid your eyes on. Can't be bothered checking when this video was made but I really hope that you have changed your rubbish opinions since it was made. Please recover and get well soon ❤️ ❤️

These mov ldhood. Sure, they weren't perfect but I wouldn't call them bad. I actually saw the originals before the live actions and rewatched the originals more. I also use to be obsessed with The Chipmunks when I was little, and they will always hold a special place in my heart. Uncle Ian and Dave carried these movies.

I grew up with these movies, and recently rewatched all of them, so for what it’s worth, these are my thoughts on the four:

Original - The story is solid, sweet chemistry with Dave, the chipmunks blend well into the world, but the love interest is cliché, adds NOTHING and some jokes are dated, but fine. The soundtrack and behind the scenes slaps tho Squeakquel - I was WAY more hyped for this movie as a kid as I am a girl and OBVIOUSLY shipped the Chipettes/Chipmunks. Unfortunately, the girls aren’t used barely at all, just to force a conflict and the moral is the same as the first. The high school setting could’ve been better utilised for world building, but adds nothing. looking back at the “bullies” in the movie, they’re pretty absurd. The jokes are not that great either.

Chipwrecked - probably my favourite one then and now, the island is a great change of setting, the conflict is believable and the “crazy Zoë girl” adds some tension. Notably, when Dave is hanging off the tree and Alvin comes in and says “Help me save my Dad!” It genuinely makes my eyes watery. I appreciate their bond with him, you can tell he loves his “kids”. Despite what David Cross (Ian) said about the movie, his scenes with Dave are fine, I still enjoy him in this movie. The Simoné subplot is pretty interesting and the chemistry between him and Jeanette is really nice. Wish it were the same with the other chipmunks and chipettes.

Road Chip - Didn’t watch this one as a kid, but the animation is what I noticed first. More expressive, sure, but WAY more fake looking. Sad Ian isn’t in this one because the stupid pilot guy is SUPER cringe along with the awful jokes and dated pop songs. Characters like Bella Thorne’s character, the babysitter and ANOTHER love interest added nothing and seemed like excessive filler. Miles and the boys had this “I don’t want a new dad/mom so let’s hate each other and team up to sabotage it” is such an overused, cliche af plot. Also the Chipettes were ALSO written out of this movie but idk WHY because I’d rather see a movie more centred around the girls and boys and their life at home than the contrived plot they chose. Seemed disorganised and really lame. Should’ve ended after the third movie.

Third is the best, most cohesive and entertaining one imo ❤ thx for listening

"Getting Lucky" from The Chipmunk Adventure: am i joke to you?

Note: And by the way, if u don't understand what i mean with this joke, watch that particular song and hear the lyrics. They are definitely all in a different level than these sexualizations in the franchise itself. Janice Karman even admitted that the song was inappropriate.

First movie is easily the best out of the four

Second movie is pretty much just the first movie again but genderbend and chipmunks are stuck at school

Third movie they clearly didn't know what to do and the only good scene of the movie was when Ian opened up about his anger and doesn't want the girl to end up like he did

At least these movies are better than the 2015 Nick CGI reboot series. Y'know, the one that flanderizes Alvin into a jerk and an idiot, where the characters look like human-squirrel hybrids and the extra characters are not only cookie-cutter stereotypes but are annoying as all heck... THAT one.

As a Brit who has watched all 4 films, Squeakquel is my least favourite, the people who made the film did not think of international viewers. When the guy asked Alvin if he would liked to join the "football" team, I expected Alvin to play the football of which Americans call soccer. When I saw Alvin playing "a weird version of rugby" it got me confused

Even the role split is fine, because its always more about Chipmunks and not the Chippettes. It's not your fault men don't have curves like women. And if you're trying to make a feminine fictional character look feminine, there's nothing wrong with that. But there's nothing sexy about chipmunks with curves. Besides, they also have curves because mist female popstars at the time actually had curves. Westerners and their sanctimonious nonsense will never cease to amaze me 🙄

Ian Hawke carried these movies hard, so much so that I vividly remembered the character but not where he came from ironically enough the quadrilogy is my favorite take of the franchise, anything that came before or after i just heavily dislike

@OzmaBara1988 | 2025-03-21 04:58:49 #4522

To me, there will always only be one Chipmunks Movie, and that's the animated Chipmunks Adventures from 1987

And apparently I am showing my age here as I seem to be the only person in this thread who has seen the Chipmunks Film I'm talking about.

Take it from ol' Auntie Ozma, you youngins had to be there...

@danielneal7606 | 2025-03-27 14:57:34 #4525

10:20 was a mascot for NASCAR in the 2000's. He's a gopher named Digger and was created to promote the "gopher" cameras that popped out of the ground.

@adw1z | 2025-03-30 01:40:37 #4526

Me just realising now that Ian was also crane in the Kung Fu Panda quadrilogy

@huevo9304 | 2025-03-30 02:41:36 #4527

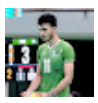
@aranryan-9440 | 2025-04-18 02:39:46 #4528

I thought he was Earl, and yeah... he probably wasn't too happy...

@gswizzy17 | 2025-04-27 11:55:52 #4529

10:20 His name is digger. In the NASCAR productions on FOX in the late 2000s and early 2010s, they would have a camera embedded into the track (pretty cool right?) and this little guy was their mascot when it happened. He also had his own little tv show for some reason.



@Big.muhammad | 2025-05-08 15:04:08 #4530

I swear every movie i love always gets shit on by critics 💔

@SantosKaijuB2025 | 2025-05-09 22:20:25 #4531

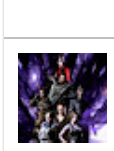
The only one that sucks was the road chip

@ehoneisdagoat | 2025-05-15 14:00:28 #4532

I loved alvin and the chipmunks as a little kid

@thefroggychannel1915 | 2025-05-22 02:39:14 #4533

i think the best one is the first Alvin & The Chipmunks live action movie and others really sucks i like Alvin & The Chipmunks to the cartoons and more but the live action movies is really bad tbh but hey good video btw.



@EliasTheGreat715 | 2025-06-08 12:42:51 #4534

And interesting fact Toby's actor would later go on to play Shazam and Harold from Harold and the purple crayon

@Infinite_Harmony_Records | 2025-06-11 19:53:40 #4535

I liked them tho but mostly Brittany Jeanette Eleanor

I first saw t in English and the I got chipwrecked on DVD but I lost it and i saw the road chip once on dvd i think red box and finally i got all four on DVD and they are what got me into the franchise and they are live action films i love next to scooby doo and the Smurfs and it's like diary of a wimpy kid because they are both by fox and I wonder if they can get an animated CG film like the Smurfs and scooby doo and Garfield and the upcoming flintstones movie because of a pattern I noticed they got CG films after 2 CG films

@sarupuru | 2025-08-04 15:10:12 #4541

Not the Chipmunks trying to blueball Dave 😭

@cedgamer2009 | 2025-08-18 06:51:23 (edited 2025-08-18 13:22:50) #4542

NGL, I hate their live action versions. I definitely grew up with their recent CGI designs from the 2015 Cartoon, they look like Inklings/ Octolings if they're based on a chipmunk (Munklings?).

I think don't watch all 4 movies, but I hate their designs here except for Eleanor, she looks so cute here.
